DELEGATIONS	Everett Cooke, County of Grande Prairie Fire Chief Arlen Miller, Director of Community Services County of Grande Prairie  Everett introduced Arlin to the Council. He spoke about issuing burn permits in the Town of Sexsmith and how this should be handled. The County of Grande Prairie has fire guardians who could perform this function. This item will be discussed again at a Corporate Services meeting.  Everett explained if a hazmat occurrence happened in the Town of Sexsmith the Sexsmith Fire Department would be the first responders. They would secure the area. Other help would arrive if needed. Incidents on the highways are normally handled by individual company Emergency Response Plans. The County of Grande Prairie has supplies to deal with hazmat issues at the Dunes Fire Hall provided by a company named Quantum Murray out of Edmonton. If these supplies were used, the company responsible for the hazmat issue would be billed for the supplies. If there was a hazmat emergency, an EOC and GPREP would likely be activated and you would see a very quick response.  Councillor Siggelkow wondered what agreement would stand in an emergency event the Mutual Aid Fire Agreement or the Emergency Management Aid Agreement. Everett explained in the event of a state of emergency the Mutual Aid Fire Agreement would be put to the side and the Emergency Management Aid Agreement would come into play. This agreement would allow municipalities to bill for the incident so that costs could be recovered from the government.  Arlin thanked Council for being invited to the meeting. He apologized for the delay on getting the dog bylaw prepared. The preparation fee will be waived.
